Twelve years and three days ago today, President John F. Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas, Texas.

A lone assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald was arrested and charged with the crime. Two days later, Oswald was murdered by an unknown night club owner, Jack Ruby. The question of whether Oswald acted alone, or was a member of a conspiracy arose out of the discrepancies concerned with the assassination. Due to these inconsistencies, President Johnson formed the Warren Commission. The Commission concluded, after a thorough investigation, that Lee Harvey Oswald did act alone.

Now 12 years later, the issue is still unresolved, with both sides claiming more and more evidence to support their contention. Supporting the conclusions of the Warren Commission is David Belin, who worked as assistant counsel to the Commission and one of their most vocal defenders. He developed the "one man—one bullet" theory claiming that Oswald acted alone. Earlier this year he served as Executive Director of the Rockefeller Commission to Investigate CIA activities. He is author of the book, "You Are The Jury" and presently an attorney in Des Moines, Iowa.

Arguing that the JFK assassination was a conspiracy is Ross Ralston-Sociologist/Criminologist and a member of the National Committee to Investigate assassinations. He has studied the issue for ten years to advance the theory that a conspiracy, rather than Lee Harvey Oswald acting alone, was responsible for the murder of President Kennedy in Dallas. Ralston is a full-time lecturer and has just written a book about the assassination.
